Best Dog Ear Cleaner

by Lara Baylosis | Updated May 15, 2019

Among the vitally necessary aspects of canine grooming is ear cleaning. Unfortunately, a majority of dog owners tend to overlook this necessity. It isn't imperative that you keep on digging out wax buildup from Doggo's ears day in and day out, but ear cleaning should be performed frequently, especially if your dog is prone to getting otitis externa or inflammation of the external ear.

The warm, dark, and complex structure of our dogs' ears is a good collecting mechanism for grime, dirt, debris as well as an ideal breeding ground for parasites and microorganisms that are simply imperceptible to our sight. Although it's true that some breeds have drooping auditory panels by nature, this, however, does not guarantee as a line of defense against a host of ear irritants. Surely, a drooping ear may cover the inner structure, but the fact remains that dogs have a knack for getting themselves downright dirty, especially when they are outdoors. They love to infest your yard with tunnels, chase anything that moves, and roll in the muck for no sensible reason. Fortunately, cleaning your dog's ears is no longer a tedious task especially with a dog cleaner at hand.

What are Dog Ear Cleaners?

While we need earwax candles or cotton buds to clean our ears, our canine companions need a specially formulated solution to clean theirs. A dog ear cleaner is basically a solution infused with certain ingredients containing antiseptic or disinfectant properties, or a combination of both. There are currently two types of dog ear cleaners: otic wipes and otic drops.

Otic wipes, on one hand, are very similar to wet wipes. The solution is imbued with the super soft cotton and hence used to wipe against the inner walls of your dog's external ear. However, otic wipes can only address the outermost parts of your dog's ear. If you want a more deep-seated cleaning, these are not the cleaners of choice.

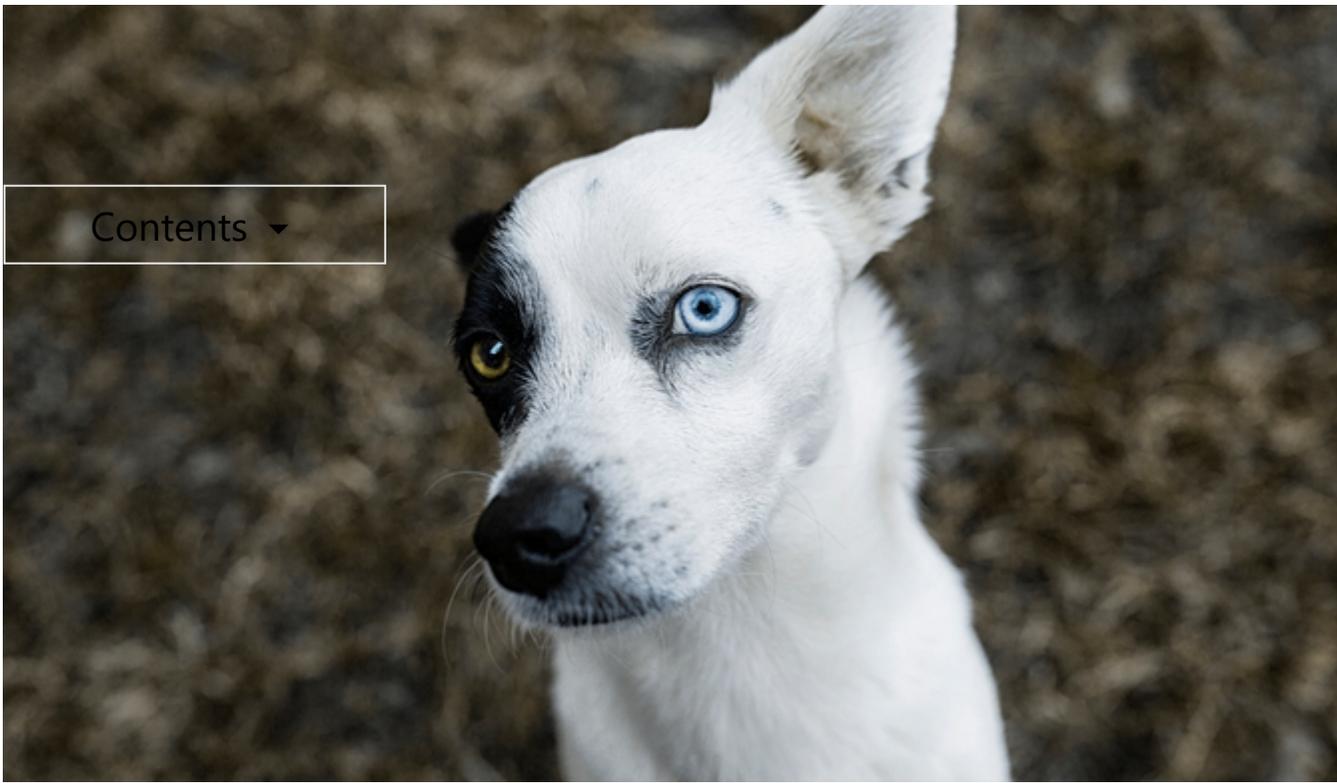

Otic drops, on the other hand, resemble eye drops. The concept is to instill a few drops of the dog cleanser into your dog's ear canal, gently massage your dog's ear base to distribute the liquid, and leave it on for a few seconds so it reaches the inner ear structures to loosen grime, debris, wax buildup, and other minute substances that may have cleaved against the walls of the ear canal. Thus, otic drops are highly recommended for their deep-cleaning abilities. Such is especially beneficial for dogs who already have ear infections since it eliminates any debris that may worsen the infection.

Factors to Consider in Choosing the Right Dog Ear Cleaner

Ingredients

Don't buy a dog ear cleaner without doing some meticulous research beforehand. The product your friend recommends may not be ideal for your dog. Know that the wrong choice of dog cleaner can cause more harm than good for your furry buddy. So, always check the label and know the nitty gritty of the product so you'll know what it is made of. Take note that a plethora of ear cleaners aren't made with dogs in mind. Instead of the primary purpose of providing your furry buddy relief, such products are only up for sale for the sole purpose of money-making.

An ideal dog ear cleaner should not contain the following:

Preservatives - Preservatives lengthen the shelf-life of ear cleaners, but such can cause allergic reactions, especially for dogs with pre-existing skin irritations.

Drying agents - Drying agents are usually alcohol, chlorothymol, or menthol that are added to the formula to help minimize moisture in dogs' ears. However, some dogs exhibit negative reactions to these drying agents, and hence they are best avoided.

Artificial fragrance - "Fragrance" is merely a moniker for "chemicals". Since companies do not disclose the ingredients they use to create fragrances, there is no way to determine its safety.

Specialization

Many ear cleaners have a multi-purpose formula, which can be used in the prevention or treatment of several infections. Meanwhile, some are specially formulated to address one type of infection only. These cleaners vary in costs according to what their formula is mainly used for.

Top 10 Dog Ear Cleaners In 2019

1. ZYMOX Otic Enzymatic Solution (with Hydrocortisone)

Contents ▾

The Zymox Otic Pet Ear Treatment from Pet King Brands is among the best-selling non-prescription pet products to date. It is highly recommended by veterinarians and has also garnered thousands of positive reviews from happy dog owners.

The Pet King Brands Zymox otic pet ear treatment is based on an antimicrobial enzyme system that includes lactoferrin, lactoperoxidase, and lysozyme. This enzymatic approach, which consists of the three natural active compounds, allows microbes in ear deposits to emit particles of hydrogen peroxide to effectively eliminate harmful microorganisms within. Such a feature is very effective in the prevention as well as the treatment of chronic otitis externa, especially when it is caused by antibiotic-resistant bacteria such as the Methicillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus.

In addition, the remarkable enzyme system also addresses yeast and fungal activities such as those prompted by Candida albicans. Likewise, the Pet King Brands Zymox otic pet ear treatment is also potent against a collection of organisms including E. coli, Pseudomonas, Proteus, and the list goes on. The Zymox otic pet ear treatment from Pet King Brands is definitely an all-in-one solution: it is a cleanser, an antibacterial and antifungal prevention, as well as treatment.

This vet-approved ear cleaner is easily accessible, so you can always act fast as soon as your dog shows signs of an ear infection. As for management of ear infection, you only need one application each day. Take note that the Pet King Brands Zymox otic pet ear treatment is also added with 1% hydrocortisone to reduce inflammation and to provide relief from itchiness caused by dry skin.

Pros:

Contents ▾

Treats acute and chronic otitis externa

Anti-bacterial and anti-fungal

Uses enzymatic approach to kill even antibiotic-resistant bacteria

Contains 1% Hydrocortisone to provide relief from itch and inflammation

Multi-purpose ear cleaner

Vet-approved and ranks as the no.1 product in the online market

Cons:

Not sufficient for severe cases of infections

2. EcoEars Dog Ear Cleaner

The Vet Organics EcoEars Dog Ear Cleaner Infection Formula is specially designed for dog owners who prefer all-natural products for their beloved furry family members. Inarguably, going organic is also the easiest way to ensure your pet's safety. If you choose this product, you can rest assured that your dog's ear cleaner is free of synthetic chemicals, additives, solvents, etc. This should also be your choice if your dog has a negative reaction towards hydrocortisone or steroids.

The EcoEars dog ear cleaner by Vet Organics uses five naturally derived ingredients such as tea tree oil, witch hazel extract, rosemary extract, mullein leaf extract, and pure vegetable glycerin. Witch hazel extract is a powerful anti-inflammatory agent; tea tree oil is notable for its antibacterial and antifungal properties; rosemary and mullein leaf extracts are potent antioxidants; while pure vegetable glycerin is an excellent moisturizing agent. This remarkable blend constitutes EcoEars' efficacy in eliminating pathogens, dirt, wax buildup, and gunk. Likewise, the Vet Organics EcoEars is the best way to deodorize and freshen up smelly dog ears.

Instilling a few drops of Vet Organics EcoEars every week and after every water activity is a sure-fire way to make your dog's ears uninhabitable for germs and parasites. As for treatment for infection, use it twice daily. With regular use, your dog's ears will always stay healthy, clean, and fresh.

Pros:

- Multi-purpose ear cleaner
- Anti-inflammatory, anti-bacterial, and anti-fungal
- Contains five botanical ingredients
- All-natural; no man-made chemicals
- Restores healthy dog ears within 10 days
- Leaves dog ears smelling great

Cons:

- More expensive than most brands
- One bottle does not suffice for a 10-day treatment

3. Zymox Ear Solution (0.5% Hydrocortisone)

Is your beloved pet still flat-out miserable despite countless trips to the vet and hundreds of dollars worth of prescriptions? Throw away those ineffective yeast pills and antibiotics, and switch to Zymox Ear Solution with 0.5% Hydrocortisone!

Tried and true, this ear cleaner from Zymox is one of the safest and most effective alternatives to treating outer ear infections. It is formulated with bio-active enzymes that uproot the root cause of your dog's ear infection. This solution eliminates a wide range of yeasts and bacteria as it erects a potent antimicrobial defense system. It also targets pathogens with high antibiotic resistance such as Staphylococcus, Malassezia, Pseudomonas, and Proteus.

Additionally, this broad-spectrum ear cleaner doubles as an antipruritic medication. Its active ingredient, which is 0.5% hydrocortisone, relieves swelling, rash, redness, itching, and other symptoms associated with the infection. This product purges the pus, dirt, and wax that microorganisms need to feed and proliferate.

The efficacy of this treatment manifests within a single application, although it is best to administer the solution once a day for three to seven consecutive days, particularly if your pet has a severe infection. Doing so gives you the peace of mind that there is no strain of harmful bacteria left inside your pet's ear.

Zymox Ear Solution is a proud all-American product. This solution can also be used for cats of all ages.

Pros:

Highlights a broad-spectrum and non-invasive approach

Contains 0.5% hydrocortisone

Anti-inflammatory and antipruritic; relieves swelling, rash, redness, itching, etc.

Flushes out pus and dissolves dirt and wax that has almost solidified

Free of antibiotics; uses natural bio-active enzymes

Kills antibiotic-resistant pathogens such as Staphylococcus, Malassezia, Pseudomonas, and Proteus

No washing of ears required before administration

Made in the USA

Ideal for households with multiple pets

No chemical smells, just squeaky clean ears

Cons:

Could potentially leave grease stains on bedspreads

Not suitable for dogs that are allergic to steroids

4. Virbac Epi-Otic Advanced Ear Cleaner

Contents ▾

The Virbac Epi-Otic Advanced Ear Cleaner is specially formulated to address otitis externa. With its principal ingredient, which is salicylic acid at 2% concentration, the Virbac Epi-Otic Advanced ear cleaner effectively kills harmful microorganisms that cause the infection. Likewise, its acidic formulation is also effective at eliminating gunk, dirt, and wax buildup that could either cause or aggravate any current infection. It also neutralizes bad odors, leaving your dog's ears also smelling clean.

As opposed to other Virbac Optic solutions, the Virbac Epi-Optic Advanced features a unique anti-adhesive property that combats germs, bacteria, and other harmful microorganisms from adhering to your dog's skin. Using the Virbac Epi-Otic Advanced ear cleaner is also a great way to flush dead skin cells that could later become dander. Although it contains 2% salicylic acid, the Virbac Epi-Otic Advanced is a gentle solution; even mild enough to use for puppies and kittens. Its formulation does not contain drying agents, artificial fragrances, or other chemicals that might be harmful to dogs. You can rest assured it is alcohol-free and chlorhexidine-free. It is also non-irritating and safe for daily use.

The Virbac Epi-Otic Advanced is one of the few non-prescription dog ear cleaners that are highly recommended by veterinarians. It is also one of the best-selling pet products based on sales and positive reviews among various online platforms. You can use the Virbac Epi-Otic Advanced ear cleaner every day; particularly as a part of your dog's daily hygiene regimen to ensure that your dog's ears are fresh, clean, and free from parasites.

Pros:

- Advanced version; features an anti-adhesive property

- Antiseptic formulation

Contains 2% salicylic acid

Safe for daily use

Alcohol-free and chlorhexidine-free

5. Zymox Ear Cleanser (with Bio-Active Enzymes)

The Pet King Brands Zymox Ear Cleanser is not intended for treating dog ear infections; however, it does prevent your dog from getting one. Its formula contains lactoferrin, lactoperoxidase, and lysozyme. These three enzymes have bio-active properties that inhibit bacterial growth. Likewise, it does not contain harsh chemicals that may irritate your dog's sensitive ears; it does, however, contain mild cleaning surfactants to wash away dirt and debris.

This variant of Zymox does not come with hydrocortisone. Moreover, the Pet King Brands Zymox Ear Cleanser with Bio-Active Enzymes leaves Doggo's ears feeling cool and fresh. Overall, this product is an excellent choice for cleaning and disinfecting Doggo's ears, as well as an adjunct to a specific treatment.

Pros:

Non-toxic; doesn't contain strong chemicals

Contains bio-active enzymes for mild microbe control

Leaves ears feeling cool and fresh

Cons:

Does not manage ear infections

6. Mister Ben's Original Ear Tonic with Aloe Vera

Contents ▾

We cannot recommend Mister Ben's Original Ear Tonic highly enough! This treatment saves you hundreds of dollars from costly, invasive, and useless treatments that could only worsen your dog's condition. It is a powerful, broad-spectrum treatment that can benefit all dogs regardless of age and breed.

One of the things we like about this ear cleaner is its capability of targeting ear mites, which is highly contagious among dogs, cats, rabbits, and other furry pets. It contains boric acid, a natural pesticide, that effectively kills ear mites. Also, its antiseptic properties are further enhanced by povidone-iodine, alcohol, and vinegar. It is worth mentioning that the iodine used for this solution won't leave a brown stain on your dog's ears.

In addition, this product harnesses the cool, soothing effects and the potent purifying properties of the "Miracle Plant", aloe vera. Whether your dog has a bacterial infection or has an overgrowth of yeast, the five combined active ingredients will provide a double-quick solution! Its all-natural approach is perfect for dogs who are sensitive to hydrocortisone, too. It fights the root cause of the infection and alleviates its symptoms as effective as the leading brand.

Administering this ear tonic to your canine buddy is also a breeze. You don't need Q-tips or cotton balls at all. Some reviewers suggest using one full dropper for each ear every other day for 14 days. Once the infection is gone, you can incorporate this product to your pet's bi-weekly preventative plan to ensure your buddy's ears are absolutely clean and free of infection.

Lastly, this product comes complete with a free eBook about dog ear health. A portion of the sales also goes to Last Chance Animal Rescue in Southampton, NY.

Pros:

- Targets contagious ear mite infection

- Contains 100% cold pressed organic aloe vera

All-natural; highlights a combined power of five natural antiseptic ingredients

Provides quick relief from itching, redness, irritation, etc.

Eliminates pus, dirt, and wax buildup

Contents ▼

Hassle-free application; no Q-tips, no cotton balls needed

Won't leave stains

No washing of ears required before administration

Can be used regularly to prevent recurring infections

Comes with a free eBook about dog ear health

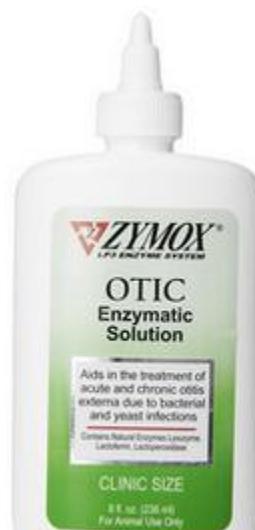

Cons:

First application could sting, especially when ears are in a bad shape

Has a strong vinegar smell

7. Zymox Otic Enzymatic Pet Ear Treatment

There is no gunk too big or too hard for Zymox Otic Enzymatic Pet Ear Treatment! This product highlights a trinity of bio-active enzymes that treat acute and chronic infections in our canine companions. As far as efficacy is concerned, these enzymes are merciless against a wide range of bacteria, virus, and fungi. This solution is particularly effective in treating otitis externa.

Zymox Otic Enzymatic Pet Ear Treatment is the real deal if you are a fan of enzymes, but not so much with antibiotics or steroids. Zymox specially calibrated this formula to suit the needs of our sensitive canine buddies. Hence, dogs who react negatively to hydrocortisone will definitely benefit from its zero-hydrocortisone formula. It is ideal for puppies and cats of all ages, too.

Moreover, this ear cleaner is as easy to administer as its counterparts. No pre-cleaning is required. All you need is to squirt some solution in the morning and at night. The infection should be gone in a few days but if your dog suffers a mild infection, it is best to extend the administration to two weeks. When the infection has gone, you can use this product as a weekly preventative against recurring infections.

Pros:

Its zero-hydrocortisone formula is suitable for sensitive canines

Flushes out pus and dissolves dirt and wax that has almost solidified

Free of antibiotics; uses natural bio-active enzymes

Pre-washing of ears before administration is not required

Made in the USA

Perfect for multiple-pet households

Has a gel-like consistency that won't easily trickle down

Doubles as a weekly ear cleaner

Cons:

Not as fast-acting as other Zymox products

Lack of hydrocortisone may not provide immediate relief from itching and irritation

8. Dog Ear Wipes by Pet MD

The simplest way to keep ear infections at bay is to maintain the cleanliness of your dog's ears. However, a damp cloth won't suffice. What you need are specially formulated ear cleansing wipes such as the Aloe Vera and Eucalyptus Dog Ear Wipes by Pet MD.

Each jar contains a hundred veterinarian-formulated ear wipes that contain aloe vera and eucalyptus oil. A well-researched benefit of eucalyptus oil is its incredible antimicrobial effects. It fights infections caused by bacteria, fungi, and viruses. Likewise, eucalyptus oil promotes wound healing and reduces inflammation. It also serves as an antifungal agent.

Aloe vera, on the other hand, is also notable for its antiseptic properties and soothing effects. The combination of aloe vera and eucalyptus ensures your furry pal's ears are squeaky clean and smelling divine! No more Dorito smells up close!

Moreover, cleansing your dog's ears using these wipes won't sting or cause discomfort to your canine buddy even if he has scratches or small wounds on his ears. These wipes are free of alcohol. This product is also proven safe for puppies over 3 months old. Very convenient, you just grab one pad, wipe it on your pet's ears, and toss it away!

Aloe Vera and Eucalyptus Dog Ear Wipes by Pet MD is proudly made in the USA. Each round pad measures 2 inches in diameter.

Contents ▾
Pros:

- Formulated by veterinarians and is FDA-approved
- All-natural; uses a blend of aloe vera and eucalyptus oil
- Alcohol-free and sting-free formula
- Gently removes dirt and wax
- Moisturizes ears and leaves a nice scent
- Safe for puppies over 3 months old
- Ideal for fast clean-ups and in between baths
- Made in the USA

Cons:

- Cleanses the outermost part of the ears only
- Only works as a prevention, not treatment
- Large to giant breeds would need 3 - 4 pads for each ear

9. Liquid Health For Animals K9 Ear Solution

Contents ▾

Prick-eared, bat-eared, hooded-eared - regardless of what type of ears your dog has, he will always be vulnerable to an ear infection. Aside from harmful microorganisms, allergies, foreign bodies, and even water can cause an ear infection. Thankfully, there is a non-invasive and far less expensive approach in treating an ear infection in our beloved canine companions. Introducing, Liquid Health™ For Animals K9 Ear Solution.

Its active ingredients include gentian violet and colloidal silver. Gentian violet is not derived from violet flowers or from gentian. It is an antiseptic dye that was used since the 1890s to treat fungal infections and minor wounds. Colloidal silver, on the other hand, is a natural antibiotic.

Additionally, this product contains boric acid, a natural pesticide. Boric acid kills fleas and mites that might be taking up residence inside your dog's ears. So, if you suspect your dog has an ear infection, be sure to treat it immediately using this ear solution.

Moreover, Liquid Health™ For Animals K9 Ear Solution is also the perfect addition to your dog's hygiene kit list. As soon as the infection is gone, you can use this ear cleaner once a week to inhibit potential irritation and accumulation of gunk that could lead to a recurring infection. You may also administer a few drops to your dog after bathing or swimming.

Pros:

- Contains boric acid that targets ear mites

- Functions as a natural antibiotic and antifungal treatment

- Eliminates dirt, debris, and wax

- Doesn't burn ears

- Clears up wounds fast

- Safe to use as often as needed

Cons:

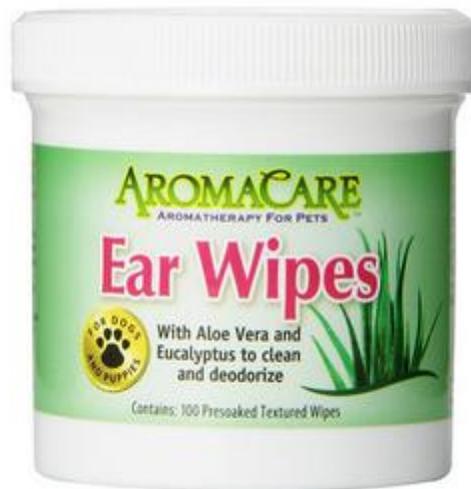

Leaves purple stains on dog's ears

Can be overdrying when used frequently

10. PPP Pet Aroma Care Ear Wipes

PPP Pet AromaCare Ear Wipes are just about the same as the ones from Pet MD. Both brands have the same container size with 100 pieces of 2-inch disposable wipes. This brand also promises success in the prevention of ear infections, provided that you use it regularly. The only difference is that the cloth is highly absorbent and has a generous amount of solution. And as its name suggests, it is quite aromatic to boot!

PPP Pet AromaCare Ear Wipes feature an amazing blend of aloe vera and eucalyptus oil. The combined properties of aloe vera and eucalyptus oil makes this product very efficacious in stopping yeast and bacterial overgrowth. Free of harsh chemicals, these wipes won't sting or cause discomfort. Since a dog's sense of smell is incredibly sharp, PPP made sure that their wipes won't cause your dog to run off because of an irritating scent.

Moreover, these tiny, fresh-smelling wipes are a breeze to swipe around the delicate areas of your dog's ears. Your beloved canine will surely love the cool and soothing effect of aloe vera, too. Know that these wipes also promote wound healing. If you have a large or giant breed, you may have to use a total of 6 - 8 pads to make sure you have covered every nook and cranny of your dog's ears.

Pros:

Textured and comes with a lot of solution

Active ingredients are aloe vera and eucalyptus oil

Gently removes dirt and wax

Moisturizes and deodorizes ears

No irritating smells

Ideal for fast clean-ups and in between baths

Cons:

You need to squeeze out the excess solution from the pads to prevent it from entering your dog's ear canal

Only cleanses the outermost part of your dog's ears

The cloth used is much thinner and easily breaks apart

Frequently Asked Questions

Q. What should I use to clean my dog's ears?

◀ Ear drops medication

We highly recommend that you administer ear drops medication to your dog to eliminate dirt and wax buildup, reduce bacterial load, address an existing infection, and so forth. A good ear solution medication provides immediate relief from inflammation, irritation, and itching. Its non-invasive protocol cures an ear infection in a matter of days. To avoid adverse reactions, opt for a solution that is free of antibiotics, harsh chemicals, and toxic components of any kind.

Ear wipes

Cleaning your dog's ears in between baths is crucial to prevent recurring infections.

While some ear solutions double as a treatment and an ear cleaner, some do not. Regardless, be sure to stash a jar of ear wipes into your dog's hygiene kit. Ear wipes are a very convenient way to keep your dog's ears in top shape. Some wipes even have formulas that dogs find relaxing. Lastly, they are portable so you can always wipe your dog's ears after he takes a nice swim at the beach or in the lake.

Equipment

Cleaning your dog's ears does not require special tools. If you are using an ear drop medication, you may need a few cotton balls and a pair of gloves.

Q. What is the brown/black stuff in dog's ears?

Earwax or cerumen is naturally secreted by the glands of the ear canal. A small amount of earwax is vital to moisturize the ear and serve as a protective barrier against harmful microorganisms. Normally, it appears yellow to orange. However, earwax that is brown or almost black in color is an indication that your canine buddy has contracted an ear mite infection.

Q. Can I use human ear cleaner on my dog?

Many dog owners swear by home remedies such as hydrogen peroxide and diluted vinegar. But before you concoct your own DIY solution, understand that your wet-nosed buddy will always remain hard-nosed when it comes to ear cleaning. And if your dog is not a saint, he will most likely do something you don't want to see.

Moreover, some ingredients in medicated ear solutions for humans can inflame your dog's ear canal. Even hydrogen peroxide with 3% concentration is no longer recommended for disinfecting minor wounds because it can burn skin tissues. Harsh chemicals could cause serious damage if it reaches deep down into your dog's inner canal.

A good rule of thumb is to avoid any home remedy that has not been approved by your veterinarian or any medicated solution that has not been calibrated for the needs of our canine companions. We recommend that you get a non-irritating brand, instead. Lastly, avoid using Q-tips as it pushes the wax further down into your dog's ear.

Contents ▾

Q. How to clean a dog's ears naturally?

▶ Rather than using alcohol-based products or dubious home remedies, opt for coconut oil. Massaging your pet's ears with a tiny amount of coconut oil once a week is enough to keep ear infections at bay. It smothers lurking ear mites, moisturizes your pet's ears, and relieves itchiness caused by dry skin. Coconut oil also has a nice smell that dogs don't find irritating.

Q. How frequent should I clean my dog's ears?

▶ The frequency with which you clean your pooch's ears usually depends on the following factors:

- breed
- coat
- level of activity

Contents ▾

- age
- ear wax production
- ear shape

Cleaning your dog's ears too frequently could cause dryness and irritation, especially if you use alcohol-based products. Regardless, dogs, in general, can benefit from weekly cleanings. But if your dog loves water games and swimming, then you should cleanse his ears more frequently to avoid an infection from contaminated water.

Conclusion

Making your own dog ear cleaner using the recipes you find on the Internet is certainly a lot cheaper, but are you sure it has no side effects? It may not be safe, so don't go down this route. Instead, invest in the right dog ear cleaner. Your dog should be given the proper care and hygiene he deserves, and that means getting the best products to use.

We highly recommend the Zymox Otic Pet Ear Treatment from Pet King Brands, especially because it is approved by veterinarians and satisfied dog owners. But if you prefer an all-natural product, then we recommend the Vet Organics EcoEars Dog Ear Cleaner Infection Formula, which ranks second on our list. Both products are all-in-one solutions, and each has showcased their effective properties at cleaning and deodorizing dog ears; treating bacterial and fungal infections, and preventing the reoccurrence of such.
